

Why?

- 1) Because you can't tell me why we shouldn't, but I can give you 100 reasons why we should!
- 2) Because the only answer to poverty is to teach the poor how to help themselves.
- 3) Because our children learn about empathy, something which is under-taught these days.
- 4) Because it will stop the flow of refugees coming for a better life.

- 5) Because it teaches our children how to do a new thing.
- 6) Because it gets kids into something other than their smartphone, TV or PC.
- 7) Because it teaches our kids to take part in a project and work as a team toward a goal.
- 8) Because it gets an entire age group to work in one direction.
- 9) Because kids want to be a part of something bigger than themselves.
- 10) Because we must stop only thinking about our past, but also about our future.
- 11) Because 193 countries signed the goal agreement, they were forced on no one.
- 12) Because <https://www.worldhunger.org/world-child-hunger-facts/> reports that approx 3.1 million children die per year of hunger related causes.
- 13) Because the SDGs make sense.
- 14) Because no matter which religion you practice, God told us to be kind to those in need. To treat others as you would want to be treated.
- 15) Because the color of my skin should not determine how I'm treated by others.
- 16) Because the religion I believe doesn't make me different than you.
- 17) Because it's the right thing to do.
- 18) Because <https://www.unicef.org/sowc05/english/poverty.html> reports that over 1 million children live in poverty and miss out on the chance to be more because of it.
- 19) Because women are equal to men and deserve equal rights.
- 20) Because most of the poor were born into it and they will never get out of it unless they get help.
- 21) Because our children are even more imaginative than we give them credit for.
- 22) Because every human deserves an education.
- 23) Because it's never been tried before, making us the first.
- 24) Because no one begins until someone else has, someone must be first.
- 25) Because it can be done without spending money using resources already in existence.
- 26) Because it will exponentially increase the amount of consumers if we bring the poor out of poverty!
- 27) Because not doing it keeps us at the bottom of the barrel, rather than the top. Is the Saarland proactive!
- 28) Because people are talking about it: <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=o08ykAqLOxk>
- 29) Because they are human beings, not animals!
- 30) Because we treat our animals better than we treat other human beings.
- 31) Because it can be done without our children losing time. Anyone can afford one hour per week!
- 32) Because if we can get 1000 kids pay the fee of $1.00 per month, we've given the poor $12,000.00 per year, but imagine the idea spreads and we reach 1 million willing to be the change in our world.
- 33) Because it's easy to wait for someone else to begin, yet we know it must be done.
- 34) Because changing the world won't happen over night.
- 35) Because even if it doesn't happen by 2030 we haven't lost, only been set back. Zero Hunger will come!
- 36) Because the club intends to prove that adults wear "rose colored glasses" blinding them to the true situation of our world, children do not.
- 37) Because children WANT to fix the world, but we haven't given them a simple channel.

- 38) Because if the projects are documented in a WIKI it can be seen as preparing for the stupidity of man.
- 39) Because we don't need to invest, it doesn't hurt to stop at any time, if it doesn't work.
- 40) Because the $1.00 per month can be seen as a vote of solidarity and we ask the UN to talk about it.
- 41) Because the SDGs have already gotten great support throughout the world and we show that the Saarland is at the top of the list, working toward solutions.
- 42) Because through the publicity it could bring SDG tourism to the Saarland!!!!
- 43) Because <http://www.who.int/reproductivehealth/topics/fgm/prevalence/en/> reports that there are an estimated 3 million girls at risk of undergoing female genital mutilation every year. The majority of girls are cut before they turn 15 years of age.
- 44) Because teaching poor children increases their chances of improving their lives, allowing them to become consumers.
- 45) Because so many children are doing it today, just look at <https://www.TheOceanCleanup.com/> for an example. The inventor was 16 years old!
- 46) Because science competitions already exist throughout the world. Just have them devoted to the SDGs.
- 47) Because the UN made it so simple for us, the entire kit exists, so we don't have to reinvent the wheel.

- 53) A training plan: <http://www.globalgoals.org/resource-centre/worlds-largest-lesson/>
- 54) Because if children find simple answers to small problems within the SDGs which are easily recreated, preferable through reuse or recycling we really would change the world.
- 55) Because in order to achieve these goals we must do something differently. Take a chance!
- 56)
